

Molotov Suffers Heart Attack

MOSCOW (AP)—V.M. Molotov, 71, former foreign minister who has been sidetracked and disgraced by his party, suffered a heart attack about 10 days ago and is in the hospital, well-informed sources reported Thursday.

The informants said Molotov's condition was "not dangerous" and he is expected to leave the hospital soon. His wife, Paulina, visits him regularly, it was said.

A Foreign Office spokesman declined to confirm or deny the report.

Mortars Rake Laos Airstrip

VIENTIANE, Laos, (AP)—Communist forces laid down fire from 120 mm. mortars on the airstrip of Nam Tha Thursday, virtually cutting off the air to the beleaguered government stronghold in northwest Laos.

The intermittent bombardment of the airstrip meant that the Pathet Lao, apparently reinforced by battalions from Communist North Viet Nam, had been able to move heavy mortars to within 6,000 yards—a little over three miles—of Nam Tha.

Radio reports from officers at Nam Tha said the defenders had not fallen back, but Communist forces previously were reported threatening the village from three sides.

Indict Hostesses Aiding Escapee

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The state attorney said Thursday two airline stewardesses have admitted helping a jail escapee, who planned to flee the city wearing women's clothes and a new bubble-cut hairdo.

But the stewardesses' attorney, Helen Hope, said they let Charles Crespo, 20, enter their apartment just to make a telephone call to his girl friend, an acquaintance of theirs.

State Atty. Richard Gerstein said arresting officers reported Evelyn Steele, 27, and Jacqueline Duplantis, 21, admitted harboring Crespo while he awaited the opportune moment to flee in his feminine disguise.

Jet Pilot Is Charged As Spy

BARI, Italy (AP) — Formal charges of political and military espionage were filed Thursday against Lt. Miluse Sokolov of the Bulgarian air force, who made two passes over a secret North Atlantic Treaty Organization missile base in a camera-equipped plane before it crashed Jan. 20.

An investigating judge in this southeastern Italian city issued an arrest warrant against the 22-year-old flier and two national police officers read it to him in the infirmary of Bari's jail. He has been recovering there from the injuries he suffered in the crash—concussion and fractures of the left arm and collarbone.

Robert Kennedy Off To Tokyo

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy took off for Los Angeles and Tokyo Thursday on the first leg of a month-long, round-the-world goodwill mission. The accent will be on youth, said the President's 36-year-old brother. He added:

"I was asked to go by the State Department to indicate that the United States is not, as described by the Communists, run by a tired and old government." Kennedy's wife, Ethel is traveling with him. Their itinerary, as given out by the State Department, listed stops in Japan, Hong Kong, Indonesia, Iran, Italy, Germany and The Netherlands. But nothing was said about Moscow.

Nixon Illness Cancels Speech

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, suffering from a virus infection, was ordered to bed by his doctor Thursday, forcing him to cancel a scheduled appearance Thursday night at a Republican rally in Fresno.

Actor George Murphy went north to take the former vice president's place. Nixon was to have appeared during the rally on a closed-circuit television hookup linking Republican rallies in major U.S. cities.

Plan Hearings On Development

HARRISBURG (AP) — At least five more hearings are planned by the Joint State Government Commission to sound out public sentiment on a proposed billion dollar development program along the Susquehanna Watershed.

Rep. Harris Beth, D-Clearfield, chairman of the commission, said Thursday future hearings probably would be held in the Towanda area, the Lock Haven-Williamsport area, Huntingdon, Clearfield and Harrisburg.

French-Algerian Peace May Have Repercussions

PARIS (AP)—The government Thursday night ordered two highly mobile tank squadrons to reinforce Paris defenses against a possible putsch by violent right-wing French opponents of Algerian independence. Similar reinforcement was under way in Algeria in anticipation of a French-Algerian peace.

Diplomatic sources said France and the Algerian rebels already have made a draft agreement that grants eventual independence to the seething North African territory.

In Algiers, 200 crack assault commandos strengthened French troops alerted for major action against the rightist Secret Army Organization.

New terrorist attacks in Algiers and Oran killed two or more persons and wounded 13. Algerians' European settlers were openly rallying to political movements defending the cause of a French Algeria.

The stepped-up military moves underlined government fears that news of a peace accord with the rebels would touch off a desperate right-wing uprising in France and Algeria.

Attacks Continued
Despite the peace treaty reports, the French army continued its attacks against the Algerian rebels in western Algeria. Authorities said troops conducted a night-long assault against a rebel hideout in an Oran suburb, killing six terrorists and capturing 11.

But Army sources said that despite the military drive, rebel terrorist cells are mushrooming. They said most Algerians arrested recently were in their late teens.

Seek Support
Joining in the "Keep Algeria French" campaign were 84 political, professional and veterans' associations who planned an Algiers "referendum of signatures" under the slogan, "I am a Frenchman."

Organization spokesmen said referendum leaflets will be distributed throughout the city in an effort to muster a show of support for continued French rule.

Word that the two light tank squadrons of tough mobile gendarmes would be assigned to Paris came in a terse government announcement.

The text of the peace document, these sources said, was hammered out in secret negotiations recently in Switzerland. They added that it needs only formal signatures on both sides to seal an accord ending the bloody seven-year conflict between France and the Algerian nationalists.

DeG Can Sign
President Charles de Gaulle has authority to sign under the terms of the 1961 referendum which gave him a free hand on Algerian policy.

As for the rebels, the Algerian nationalist Cabinet is meeting Friday in Tunis, and its decision will be referred to a sort of provisional parliament, the National Council of the Revolution, which is meeting in Tripoli in the next two weeks.

In both cases, the rebel decision is expected to be affirmative.

Warns Plan 'Will Not Come Cheaply' But Will Save Money

Highlights Of Welfare Program

THE MAJOR points of President Kennedy's welfare program, as presented to Congress, included the following commendations:

Federal Share
Raising the federal share from one-half to three-fourths of the costs of rehabilitation and social services, at a cost of about $40 million.

Local Projects
Encouraging community work projects and job-training projects for jobless relief clients, with federal aid given only where regular workers would not be displaced or prevailing wages undercut.

Child Welfare
Raising the $25-million limit on federal grants for child welfare services to $30 million in fiscal 1963 and, by annual step-ups of $5 million each, to a ceiling of $50 million in 1969.

Daycare Program
Providing $5 million next year and $10 million a year thereafter to assist in establishing local daycare programs for the children of working mothers.

Training Aid
Increasing the federal support given for the training of welfare workers, to help the states overcome "an acute shortage" of persons qualified to do rehabilitation, guidance and social work.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy advanced a far-reaching program Thursday aimed at moving the indigent from relief rolls to payrolls. First congressional reaction was cautious approval from some members of both parties.

Kennedy asked Congress in a special message for a one-tenth increase in the $2-billion permanent federal payments for welfare, as part of the first major overhaul of the fund-matching program in its 25-year history.

He cautioned that the new approaches—rehabilitation and prevention instead of handouts—"will not come cheaply. But in the long run they will save money."

Kennedy asked permanent extension of the $100-million, one-year aid program for children of the needy unemployed, plus $93 million for new or expanded rehabilitation and social services, work-training projects, and daycare for the children of working mothers.

With the Senate in recess Thursday, the message was submitted only to the House and initial reaction came only from that branch.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee set hearings to start Feb. 7 and predicted they will be finished quickly. Secretary of Welfare Abraham A. Ribicoff will be the first witness.

Opinions Given
A ranking Republican committee member, Rep. John W. Byrnes, Wis., commented: "This is an area in which we can certainly do something."

Another member, Rep. Cecil R. King, D-Calif., said he favors the program as a whole. However, he said one Kennedy proposal — a one-year top on residence requirements for relief eligibility—"may present problems for states to which the needy migrate in large numbers."

Kennedy went even further. He urged that Congress offer a slight increase in matching funds to states which wipe out their residence requirements entirely, as New York and Connecticut have done.

And he warned against what he regards as heavy-handed local efforts to slash relief rolls.

Cites Newburg
Without speaking directly of the nationally publicized case of Newburgh, N.Y., Kennedy said: "Communities which have — for save money through ruthless and whatever motives — attempted to arbitrary cutbacks in their welfare rolls have found their efforts to little avail. The root problem remained."

Cities which have taken "the rehabilitative road" got better results, he said — "Families have been restored to self-reliance, and relief rolls have been reduced."

U. S. Court Upsets Bible Reading Rule

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The reading of the Christian Bible in Pennsylvania's public schools violates religious freedom, a special federal court said Thursday in ruling the 1959 state Bible reading law is unconstitutional.

Chief Judge John Biggs Jr. of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit joined two District Court jurists in unanimously ruling the law permitting Bible reading violated the "establishment of religion" clauses in the United States Constitution.

The same court, specially assembled to hear the constitutional question three years ago, said the reading of any portion of the Bible in public schools was illegal.

Trying to overcome this prohibition, the state legislature amended the original 1949 law to permit children to be excused from listening to Bible reading if their parents requested in writing.

The court, in the opinion written by Judge Biggs, held this was likewise illegal. It said the state "has seen fit to breach the wall between church and state."

Argentine Army Demands Formal Break With Cuba

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Argentina's angry military chiefs met with President Arturo Frondizi and his foreign minister for 3 hours and 12 minutes Thursday night to press demands for a diplomatic break with Communist Cuba.

Foreign Minister Miguel Angel Canciano announced afterward that a communique would be issued Friday morning, and it appeared that the government had won at least a breathing spell in the crisis.

Crisis Looms
The crisis blew up in the aftermath of Argentina's refusal at Punta del Este to vote with the majority for ousting Cuba from inter-American affairs.

The three armed forces secretaries had insisted that Canciano and his top aides be fired for supporting a gswow policy against the regime of Prime Minister Edelberto Castro.

But Canciano apparently managed in the extraordinary night session to placate them, at least for the time being.

He told newsmen after the session that he had explained the stand of the Argentine delegation at Punta del Este.

Calls For Break
The military call for a break with Castro's Red regime was a swift sequel to Argentina's stand in the soft-six bloc at the inter-American conference.

Canciano conferred with the president for more than an hour on returning home from the conference, then indirectly denied a report by the Argentine news agency Telpress that he was resigning.

Explains Vote
A diplomat, writer and attorney who took over the foreign ministry last Sept. 12, Canciano issued a statement saying he explained Argentina's votes at Punta del Este.

The big issue was Argentina's abstention — along with Brazil, Bolivia, Chile, Ecuador and Mexico — on the key resolution adopted at Punta del Este. This was the U.S.-backed call to the Organization of American States for expulsion of Castro's government from hemispheric family councils.

Knows Danger
Canciano's statement said the Argentine delegation took full cognizance of the dangers of Communist penetration of the hemisphere and, consequently, the incompatibility of Castro's regime with the inter-American system.

"The legal reasons which supported our vote do not diminish our firm decision to fight communism in our country and in the continent," he said. "Neither does it reduce our solidarity with the countries which voted positively."

Army, navy and air force chiefs have also demanded, in strongly worded statements, the ouster of all pro-Communists and Peronists from the administration's payroll.

Informed sources said army, navy and air force commanders demanded that Frondizi devise a new foreign policy.

They called on the president — who expressed belief recently that "sooner or later Cuba will return to the American family" — to make a major address to the Argentine people explaining "the attack against communism is more a matter of defense than politics."

What action the military might take if Frondizi held to his old policies and belief was not spelled out, but it is a strong force on the conservative side in Argentine affairs. Pressing him from the other side are powerful leftist factions.

Further Censure Sought On Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk looked Thursday to further moves to reinforce the inter-American foreign ministers' action against the Moscow-linked Cuban regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Promptly after returning to a special welcome from President Kennedy for his role in the 10-day ministerial meeting at Punta del Este, Uruguay, Rusk told a news conference:

Points Listed
1. The United States will consider halting its purchases from Cuba. Americans now buy some $35 million a year of Cuban goods, mostly tobacco. Cuba buys about $15 million worth of U.S. products, all food and medicine.

2. "The governments most immediately concerned" already are moving to cut off illicit Cuban arms shipments to other hemisphere lands. This was Rusk's answer when asked whether the U.S. Navy is on the job.

3. The United States wants countries outside the inter-American system to swing their policies into line with those of the American states. Canada and others have been accused of increasing their business with Castro.

4. The United States is pushing for a speedy meeting of the Council of the Organization of American States to carry out the Punta del Este resolutions against the Havana regime.

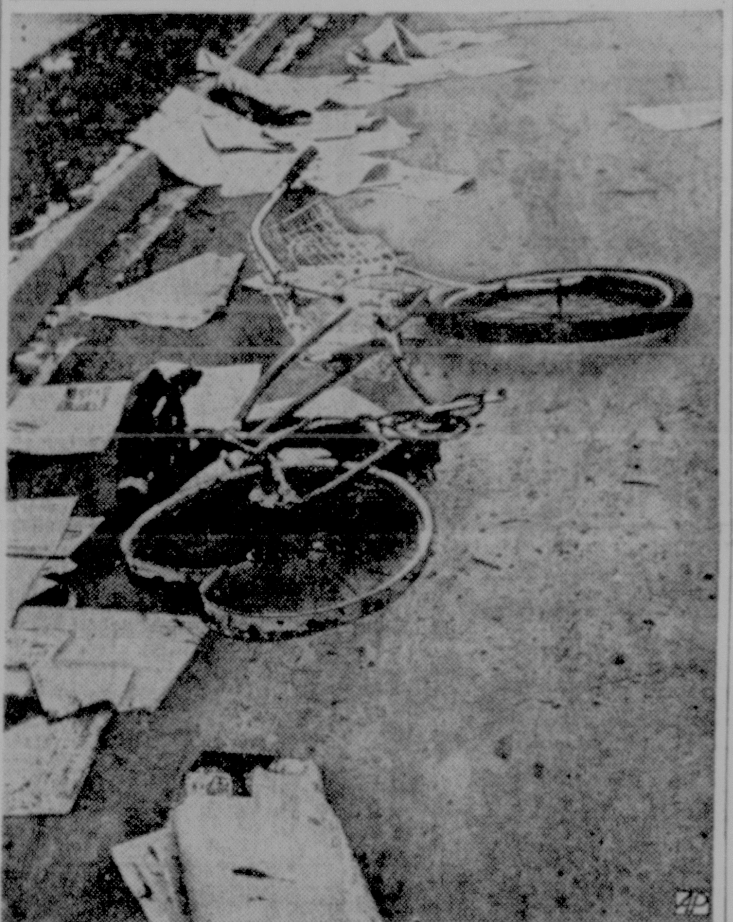

Cuba 'Incompatible'
Declaring a Cuban Communist state incompatible with the inter-American system, the Punta del Este conference voted to expel Cuba from the OAS; institute a continental embargo on arms shipments to and from Cuba; organize a vigilance system to prevent Cuba's spreading communism in the Americas.

Rusk said the arms embargo does not apply against shipments to Cuba from the Communist bloc.

Rusk said the aim of the embargo is to stop sneak arms shipments that have been going from Cuba to other American nations where Castro is trying to promote insurrection.

Land In Snowstorm
The secretary of state and others of the U.S. delegation arrived at nearby Andrews Air Force Base in the beginning of a snowstorm. In a special gesture of welcome, Kennedy had the weary delegates flown by helicopter directly to the White House lawn.

"There was no question," Rusk said at his news conference, "but that the present government of Cuba was and is isolated from this hemisphere."

EVIDENCE OF TRAGEDY — These blood-covered newspapers were never delivered in Lexington, Ky. Edward Evans, 13, a substitute newsboy, was struck from behind by a truck on a highway and died on the way to the hospital. Police said the truck driver, Arthur D. Harris, 59, was charged with manslaughter and being drunk. The boy's smashed bike lies as mute evidence of the tragedy. (AP Wirephoto)

Three Committees Set To Check Stockpiling

WASHINGTON (AP) — It appeared possible Thursday that not one or two but three congressional committees will rummage through Uncle Sam's bulging, $7.7-billion cupboard of stockpiled strategic materials.

And it seemed probable, too, that the public for the first time would learn just what has been accumulated since the government in World War II began buying supplies of nonagricultural products needed in the complicated business of running a military machine.

President Kennedy told his news conference Wednesday that these defense stockpiles have swollen to about double possible wartime needs. He added that he was suggesting that an existing three-man stockpiles subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee go thoroughly into the matter.

Thursday, Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said Republicans favor such an inquiry but he felt it should be conducted by a joint committee on reduction of non-essential government spending which is headed by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va.

A few hours later, Byrd disclosed he was writing Kennedy to commend the move and advise he was ready to go ahead with a full inquiry, providing the President lifts the secrecy order which always has veiled the extent of the stockpiles.

Then Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., held a news conference to say that his stockpile subcommittee will start hearings with a month, as Kennedy suggested.

Next, Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., got into the act by issuing a statement that the joint committee on defense production, of which he is chairman, has been inquiring regularly into the stockpile situation.

The AFL-CIO executive council reported it met Wednesday in Harrisburg at the same time as the policy meeting and had wired its endorsement to the meeting.

The Democratic leaders made no disclosure of the endorsement following their meeting.

In addition to backing Dilworth, the labor group also endorsed these other statewide candidates: For re-election — U.S. Sen. Joseph S. Clark and Secretary of Internal Affairs Genevieve Blatt.

Art Group Will Hear Color Expert

POCONO Mountain Art Group will hold its semi-monthly meeting in the Stroud Union High School art room Tuesday, Feb. 27. Hearing the program will be Leonard Bocour of New York who will talk on "The Permanent Palette."

At a recent meeting, President Farley stated that this will be one of the educational features arranged by the program committee, Elsie Logan is chairman.

It was learned that Bocour in his early painting days was not too happy with some of the colors being sold on the market and conducted extensive research into the components and preparation of artist materials. This inevitably led to experimenting. Soon he was making his own for his friends and as the demand grew he turned to the making of paints in quantities large enough for public use.

There will be no admission charge and the public is invited.

Officials Check Mine Flooding

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—Portions of Pittston and nearby Duryea threatened by underground flooding were checked Thursday by federal and state mine officials. The officials, headed by Daniel Connelly, deputy state mines secretary, studied the feasibility of drilling bore holes that would permit water to drain out of abandoned mines into the nearby Lackawanna and Susquehanna rivers.

The flooded pits are endangering scores of homes and businesses. Among those accompanying Connelly were John Starr of the Baltimore District of the U.S. District of the U.S. Army Engineers; Clifford McConnell, chief of flood control division, Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters; and Paul Heltzer, division engineer for northeastern Pennsylvania.

Police in Pittston and Duryea reported no complaints have been received yet from property owners.

Connelly said it is hoped prompt action now can avert any damage.

In some areas of the city, householders and apartment dwellers dumped their garbage in the streets.

Soviet-Born Lecturer Urges Americans To Be Strong

By BOBBY WESTBROOK

A standing ovation brought the American-born members of Dutch Treat Club to their feet in tribute to the American spirit of Russian-born Nila Magidoff at their meeting last night at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

"What can we do to prevent a shooting war?" she asked and answered: "Win the cold war!" We must be strong at home. Democracy has proved that it can out-produce Communism.

We can switch overnight from washing machines to machine guns, if necessary. But we must also maintain our morale, our passion for the right, not only for ourselves but for the millions who look to us.

"One thing that has disturbed me in my travels, something that the dictatorship of the world is working for: we are frightened. Frightened people can't unite for what they believe in. We must face the world, not with fear and suspicion, but with faith in our neighbors.

"We are a rock and if we are united, nobody — but nobody, can change or defeat us."

Mrs. Magidoff spoke of dictatorship with authority having been born in Russia, suffered exile in Siberia and expulsion from Russia with her NBC war correspondent husband under Stalin.

Mrs. Magidoff came to the United States alone just before Pearl Harbor and became involved immediately in a War Bond speaking tour. She re-joined her husband in 1945 in Moscow in what she termed "a sentimental journey." Although even then an American citizen she had not learned the American way of life, made American friends.

Turns To Dismay

However the sentiment soon turned to dismay and she welcomed their expulsion on false charges of espionage for America.

"When I returned to Russia in 1958, I went with more than American passport. Becoming an American is more than just living in America," she said outlining in telling phrases just what those ten years had meant in terms of private life and friendships.

The burden of her talk dealt with this return to Russia as an American and the changes she had found. She traveled with Willie Snow Etheridge whose book on their travels, "Russian Duet," paid for their passage. "It's amazingly expensive to travel in a proletarian country," she observed wryly.

The first change she found was the eagerness of Russians to talk to foreigners. Russians traditionally are sympathetic to Americans, she pointed out, a sympathy which years of propaganda have failed to quench.

Under Stalin, however, they were afraid to talk. Also new was the freedom extended to foreigners traveling in Russia. Khrushchev's greatest appeal to the Russian people was his amnesty act of 1955 when he freed the Russians in concentration camps.

Although nothing was done to repay them for losing the best years of their life, for broken families and damaged health, the mere fact of freedom, the small privileges all the Russians have been granted under Khrushchev are so much better than under Stalin that they are grateful, she reported.

She also reported with humor and swift word pictures a Russian fashion show where the fashions were beautiful but neither meant for nor meant available to the still-shabby audiences who watched them; a visit to a Russian public bath; and to a Russian wedding where the State is attempting, somewhat pathetically, to make the ceremony "more beautiful."

Maybe' Bags

"Women in Russia go shopping with what they call their 'maybe' bags — because 'maybe' they may be able to find something to buy," she explained. "Don't try to compare them with Americans. These are the third generation raised under Communism and they know very little about the world outside — but they are learning."

"Why do they survive? Because they still have a very deep love of children and of family, they have a curiosity to learn and welcome new educational opportunities; they have a passionate desire for peace, and a faith that things will be better."

"Although the fantastic achievements in space vehicles and war material have left little for consumer goods, they have resulted in people having more time. People with time read and think and wonder. And when people begin to wonder, dictatorship worries."

Although things are now easier and the people feel more secure than in Stalin's time, they are still conscious that the machinery of dictatorship is still there, ready to be invoked at any time, she said, pointing out that, while strangers feel free to talk with her, former friends avoided her since any gesture of friendship might result in their own destruction.

Gilbert Dunning presided at the meeting when the members voted to continue their lectures through March and April, each contributing to the treasury. Mrs. Ruth Brown gave treasurer's report covering the last two years. The next meeting will be March 1.

We can submit excellent plans for Special Structures as Mausoleums, grave covers, or any "Custom Work" you may desire.

Monroe School Districts May Get 'Lost' State Aid

Record Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — Seventeen Monroe County school districts will be in line to receive $130,450 on "lost" state aid if legislation slated to be introduced in the Legislature Monday gains ultimate legislative and gubernatorial approval.

The "lost" state aid to school districts throughout the state is the result of gubernatorial veto during the past 1961 legislative session of legislation that would have "frozen" school subsidy payments at previous minimum levels—but which without the "freeze" legislation, dropped in the case of nearly 200 local school districts because of increased real estate market values certified by the State Tax Equalization Board.

It is these "school subsidy drops" that House Republican Minority Leader Albert W. Johnson proposes to restore in an amendment to the deficiency appropriation bill now before the House of Representatives—an amendment slated to be introduced Monday when lawmakers return to their desks on Capitol Hill.

Initiated By GOP

Although the move—in the overall picture representing a recouping by local school districts of $9,130,072 that otherwise would be lost in this spring's school subsidy payments—is being initiated by the Republican minority bloc in the House, indications have been strong that the 101-member GOP minority bloc may gain sufficient help from administration Democrats to provide the necessary 106 votes needed to clear the amendment.

Breakdown

The Johnson amendment would restore these "losses" to these Monroe County school districts:

East Stroudsburg Borough, $6,007; Stroud Union, $40,012; Barrett Township, $5,409; Chestnut Hill Township, $6,334; Coolbaugh Township, $5,593; Eldred Township, $1,949.

Jackson Township, $5,633; Middle Smithfield Township, $15,893; Mount Pocono Township, $6,527; Paradise Township, $9,285; Pocono Township, $9,339; Poik Township, $5,441.

Price Township, $1,913; Ross Township, $3,090; Smithfield Township, $6,623; Tobyhanna Township, $5,697; and Tunkhannock Township, $3,932.

Tax Filing Facts

Choose The Right Form In Filing Tax Return

First in a series of articles on federal income tax filing. These articles are based on information provided by the Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service.

IN MOST cases the average wage earner can handle his own tax return with very little effort. Unless you receive income from many sources or have many deductions, you may use a simplified form. The Internal Revenue Service makes available to you two tax return forms. Choosing the wrong one may cost you money. If you receive a form in the mail, do not be misled into thinking this is the form you must use. It is sent to you for your convenience on the basis of past filing.

Form 1040A is a simplified form for those taxpayers who have little income other than wages. Form 1040 is a long form for all other cases. Whichever form you choose, it must have attached all the withholding statements (forms W-2) from all of your employers during the year.

Simplified Form 1040A

The Simplified Card Form 1040A may be used as a separate or a joint return and has the following limitations:

1. Your income or the combined income of husband and wife must be less than $10,000.
2. Your salary or wages must be subject to withholding. That is, your employers must deduct federal income tax.
3. Your total of other income must be less than $200 and in the form of other wages, dividends or interest.
4. You cannot claim any exclusion for sick pay which is included on your form W-2.
5. You cannot claim deductions for employee expenses, credits for payment on estimated tax or retirement income credit.
6. You cannot itemize your deductions.
7. You may not claim the benefits of Head of Household or Surviving Spouse Status.

If your total income is less than $5,000 this form may be completed without computing the tax. The District Director will bill you for any tax you owe. If you compute the tax, you must send in any tax due with your return. The standard deduction is allowed by using the optional tax table.

If your total income is over $5,000 and less than $10,000, you must compute your tax, using a standard deduction equal to 10 per cent of the income shown on the return. Any additional tax is due with your return.

Should You Itemize Deductions?

The standard deduction is $1,000 ($500 for married persons filing separately) or 10 per cent of your income, whichever is less. In using the tax table for income of less than $5,000, the government has automatically allowed for a standard deduction. If your deductions are over 10 per cent of your income, you will reduce your tax by itemizing them. You are allowed deductions for contributions, taxes (not federal income or excise taxes), interest paid and medical and dental expenses, to name the major items. These deductions will be explained in later articles.

Rate Classification

In most cases married people will reduce the total income tax by filing jointly. A surviving spouse may file a joint return for two taxable years following the year of death of the husband or wife. However, he must maintain a home for the entire year and have a son, stepson, daughter, or stepdaughter who is a member of the household and a dependent. A single person may qualify for reduced rates as the head of the household if he maintains a home in which he and another person, qualifying as a dependent, lives. Dependent parents need not reside with the taxpayer.

The Internal Revenue Service only wants you to pay the tax you owe and suggests that you use the form and method of filing which is most advantageous to you. Compare the tax you would have to pay by taking a standard deduction and by itemizing your deductions. If you are married, compare the difference in tax between filing a joint return and filing separate returns. Too little time or care devoted to your income tax return may cost you money. The employees of the Internal Revenue Service are anxious to help you. There is no charge. They understand your problems and have tried to answer your questions in the instruction booklet. Read it carefully. If you still have a question ask for help by merely telephoning your nearest Internal Revenue Office. It may cost you less for a few more minutes of your time.

Kunkletown Soldier In Germany

ARMY Specialist Four Marvin T. Borger, son of Tilgman H. Borger, Route 1, Kunkletown, is participating in the 3rd Armored Division's month-long winter training exercises in Grafenwohr, Germany, which will end Feb. 7.

High point of the Spearhead division's annual training cycle is the training includes day and night tactical exercises emphasizing cold weather training, mobility and chemical, biological and radiological warfare. An essential part of the training is range firing of individual and team-served weapons including the Army's new M-60 machine-gun and the 105 and 120-millimeter tank guns.

The 3rd, a major element of NATO forces in Europe, plays an essential role in maintaining world peace.

Specialist Borger, a truck driver in the Service Battery in the division's 6th Artillery in Gelnhausen, entered the Army in May 1960, completed basic training at Fort Dix, N. J., and arrived overseas in October 1960.

The 24-year-old soldier is a 1956 graduate of Polk Township High School in Kresgeville.

Spring Fever In Barrett Twp.

BARRETT—Rather mild weather lulled township residents into believing that spring was just around the corner. Signs prevail if a magnifying glass is used. The days are getting longer but it is cold and the inside looks pretty good after a short trip to the mailbox.

Cabin fever is beginning to take a toll. Footprints get higher and higher on the walls. Adelaide Manhart will have a tough time putting footprints on the walls for a while though, a trip she hadn't planned put her ankle in a cast for what may be a big chunk of the winter.

Eating out has become the theme. The Explorers of Post 99 will be hosts for the Seoul movement in Barrett at the annual dinner at Pine Knob Wednesday night. They are still interested in scouting uniforms and medals, too, for their display.

Fathers and sons in the community will be regaled with tales of sports personalities from Charles Reese, ESSC coach, at the annual banquet at the Barrett YMCA next Saturday. All fathers and sons are invited to attend. Mothers and daughters will have their banquet in April.

Another social event is the Pocono Young Adults "Twist Around The Clock" party at the Barrett School tomorrow night. Kirby Scott will spin the records. He's a disc jockey.

Dress rehearsal for the "Wedding Gown Revue" will be held at the school Wednesday night. Thursday morning Madalyn Maloney will interview Mrs. Joyce Wilson and Mrs. Pat O'Neill on her radio show at 9:45 a.m.

Rev. and Mrs. John Carter have informed friends that the weather at their present base bears little resemblance to ours. They are due to return here early next week.

Members of the Organ Memorial Committee of the Canadensis Moravian Church have set their sights and are thinking big.

MORA Hears Talk On Two Plans

ARTHUR M. Troegner led a discussion of old age insurance and hospitalization plans at Wednesday's meeting of the MORA Club at the YMCA.

John R. Wilson complimented members of the club for their work in the recent YMCA membership drive. Rev. Luther E. Markin, club chaplain, was welcomed upon his return from a vacation in the Southwest.

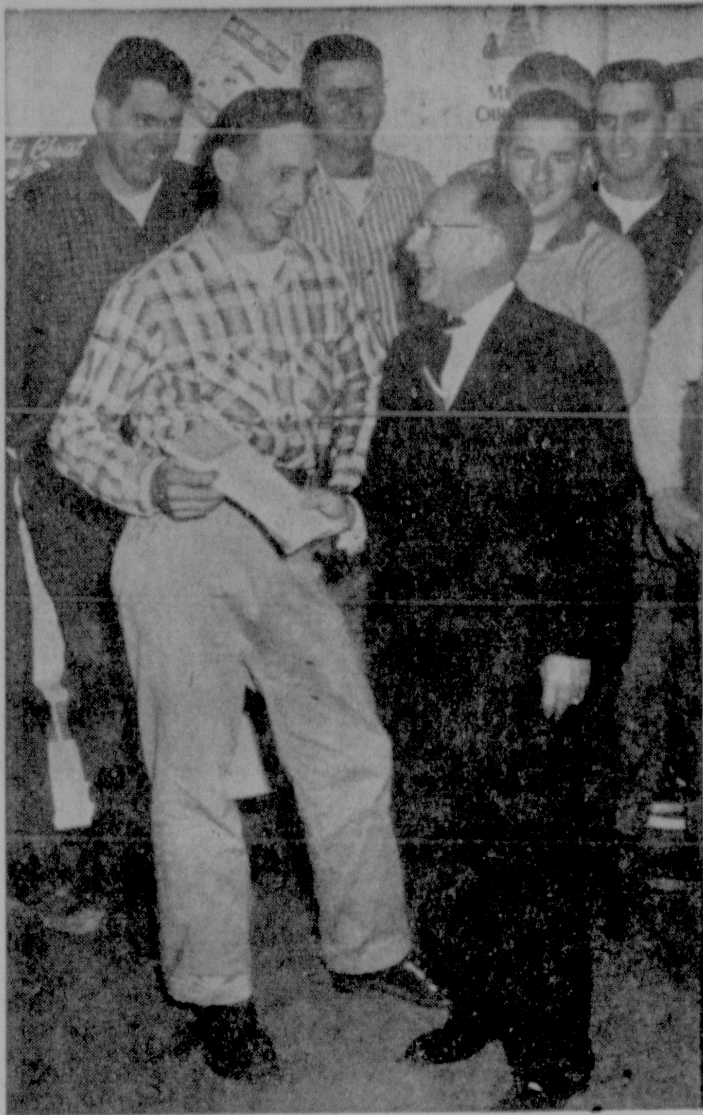

Members of the Leisure Hour Club joined the group for a motion picture. Enos Siptho was introduced and the birthdays of Edwin Butts and Fred Lindner were observed.

It was announced Frank W. Gaydos, Uniondale, will be the speaker at a joint Leisure Hour-MORA meeting on Feb. 7 and Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, president of East Stroudsburg State College, will give the Lincoln Day address at a meeting to be held at Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. headquarters on Phillips St.

Father-Son Banquet At Barrett 'Y'

BARRETT—The annual Father-Son Banquet will be held at the Barrett YMCA Saturday, Feb. 10. Fathers and sons will sit down to dinner at 6:30 p.m. Charles Reese, physical education instructor and coach at East Stroudsburg State College will tell the audience about famous athletes he has known and Olympic stars.

Reservations may be made by calling the YMCA, LY 5-2730 to-day. All fathers and sons in Barrett are welcome to attend.

SUGGESTION PAYS OFF—Chester C. Sebring, cable splicer for the Bell Telephone Co.'s Stroudsburg office, is shown receiving a $150 award from C. A. McGeever of Scranton, district construction superintendent, after Sebring's suggestion of a new design for a ladder support used by splicers was adopted by the company's suggestion plan committee.

S-burg Visit Feb. 9

Lions To Sponsor Blood Drive

A VISIT of the Red Cross Bloodmobile is scheduled for Friday, Feb. 9, at the First Presbyterian Church, Stroudsburg, between 9:45 a.m. and 3:45 p.m. The visit, under the auspices of the Monroe County Chapter, American Red Cross, is being sponsored at this time by the Stroudsburg Lions Club.

Blood program chairman Joseph Deffenz has emphasized that the visit next Friday is extremely important to keeping the county's priority. A drop in collection at the Wilkes-Barre Center in December due to illness of regular donors, has severely lowered the available supply and every effort is urged to build it up.

Monroe County Red Cross along with 32 other chapters in Northeast Pennsylvania, have established what is known as N. E. Penna. Regional Blood Center at Wilkes-Barre.

This is a laboratory and office staffed with nurses, medical directors, technicians, clerical help and three bloodmobile units. Trucks equipped with beds, medical supplies and everything necessary to go out to the Chapter and collect blood. Each chapter is given a quota yearly which amounts to approximately one pint for every 25 persons living within the chapter jurisdiction. The Monroe County Quota is 1250 pints a year.

All blood that is collected from each chapter is taken to Wilkes-Barre Center, processed, tested, and made ready for delivery to the Hospitals weekly.

Question — Who can give blood?

Answer—Any person age 21 through 59 who's in good health and weighs 110 pounds or more. Those 18 through 20 years of age may also give blood, provided they have parental consent. But persons 18 through 20 who are in the armed forces or are married do not need parental consent.

J. — Does a donor experience any noticeable effect from giving blood?

A. — A healthy person should feel none whatever.

Q. — Does giving blood lower resistance to illness?

A. — No.

Q. — What precautions are observed for the donor's safety?

A. — For the safety of both donor and the recipient of blood, each donor relates certain facts of their medical history. A nurse asks donor about past illnesses. Their blood pressure, temperature, pulse, weight, and hemoglobin level are determined.

Q. — How long does blood keep?

A. — 21 days is the present dating period for blood. Even after this long storage, 70 per cent of the red cells are still useful when transfused.

Q. — Does the Red Cross charge for blood collected through its centers?

A. — Never.

Q. — Then why are some people charged following a transfusion?

A. — Blood collected by the Red Cross is provided to physicians and hospitals for care of their patients. Before blood can be administered to a patient, it must be carefully tested and mixed with a sample of the recipient's blood (crossmatched) to be sure it will not cause a reaction. The cost of this laboratory work and the cost of the test through which the blood is given are usually borne by the patient. The American Red Cross does not provide this service; it receives no part of the fees for these tests.

Q. — Does the Red Cross Blood Program require replacement of blood?

A. — No.

Blood is supplied on the basis of Medical need. It is recognized, however, that there is no magic source of blood. It comes only from the veins of individuals interested in supporting a Blood program. Naturally the people who should be most interested in the success of such a program are those who have just experienced its benefit. The family of a patient who has received blood should be given an opportunity and encouraged to replenish the supply of blood. In a voluntary program, however, prior placements or replenishment are not mandatory requirements.

The main advantage of a Program such as the Red Cross is developing is that if enough people give one pint of blood per year at their convenience, enough blood will always be available and pint-for-pint replacement at the time blood is used will not be necessary.

More than 25 percent of the population of any community in the United States could qualify in all respects as Blood Donors, yet only one pint of blood each year from only 5 percent of the population would supply all present community and Defense requirements of the Nation.

Sometimes 40

Q. — How much blood does an individual patient need?

A. — Sometimes only one or two pints, sometimes as many as 40 or more. It depends on his condition and what his physician decides is necessary to help him back to health.

Q. — Can I have blood supplied by Red Cross free if I am hospitalized outside of Monroe County?

A. — Yes. Any resident of Monroe County can secure blood from the Center if they are hospitalized outside of Monroe County by applying to the Red Cross office, Court House Square, Stroudsburg, Pa. It is best to apply before entering the Hospital of your choice.

Knighthood Flowers For Cub Scouts

A full scale medieval tournament, complete with horses, marked the meeting of Cub Pack 95, Swiftwater held Wednesday night at the Paradise School based on their theme for the month: "Knights of Yore".

Helmets of ice cream cartons, shields, swords, spears and battle axes of card board and pillow-case tunics formed the costumes and all two horses were also made of cardboard.

At the meeting of parents afterward, pack meetings were set for the last Thursday of each month and will be held at different schools in the area.

A skating party was planned for Sunday, Feb. 11 at Burnett's Lake with the public invited to join the boys who will offer hot chocolate and refreshments for sale.

Square Dance, Box Social For Fire Co. Aux.

Bushkill — Plans for a square dance and box social for adults to be held on Feb. 10 at the Bushkill firehouse were discussed at the January meeting of the Ladies Aux. of the Bushkill Fire Co.

Mrs. Alfred Arnst is arranging music. Each woman will bring a decorated box containing light refreshments for two with her name inside the box. Dancing will start at 8 with the boxes to be auctioned off later. Coffee and soda will be supplied by the auxiliary.

Mrs. R. Ivan Michaels presided at the meeting when Mrs. Betty Raitt was accepted as a new member. Mrs. Carl Van Why and Mrs. Michaels served refreshments.

Brownie Troop Celebrates Fourth Birthday

Newfoundland — There were four decorated cakes, each with four candles, at the fourth birthday party of Brownie Troop 252 at Southern Wayne Joint School this week, and there were three and one-half gallons of ice cream and ten large cans of punch which disappeared when the brownies and their guests concluded their meeting with refreshments.

Guests of the troop at the party were Evelyn Haldaman, Aileen Welland, Trudy Tobey, Valada Stevens, Jane Colan, Marilyn Banks, Bonnie Price, Nancy Haldaman, Mrs. Richard Simons, Mrs. Raymond Loomis, Mrs. Ray Nevin, Mrs. John Price, Mrs. Florence Krieger, Mrs. Jean Zane, Mrs. Lorraine Keltner, Mrs. Vera Newcomer and Mrs. Josephine Woltjen.

Appointed to the sick committee were Mrs. Claude Cyphers, Mrs. Haviland Heller and Mrs. Russell Bond.

The meeting closed with prayer led by Mrs. Joseph Dunbar.

She was terrific, with a low voice, a facility for conveying important truths through homely illustrations, and an intensity that carried the audience right along with her all the way. In fact they were so carried away that there wasn't even grumbling or muttering about shelling out the extra assessment necessary for carrying out the rest of the year's program — and that's really power.

As for the rest of my little nuggets of news, I'll try to tuck them away in my cheek like a squirrel — saving them for the next dull day. Except you never seem to leave me any. Like, for instance, Mrs. Harold Lanterman quipping as she admired the Kester's golden money tree: "Please give me a slip of that tree so I can start one of my own."

Friends And Family Honor Kester's Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Kester, of 104 Ridgeway St., East Stroudsburg, were the guests of honor at a Golden Wedding anniversary open house held at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Kester, of 111 Ridgeway St., East Stroudsburg on Sunday from 2 to 10 p.m.

More than 150 friends and relatives gathered to pay tribute to the couple in a celebration which opened at 2 with a blessing asked by Mrs. Kester's oldest brother, Rae Lawton, of Millville, Pa.

The best man at their wedding, her youngest brother, George Lawton, was also present for the party. The maid of honor, Miss Esther Kester, of Bloomburg, although in good health, was unable to attend.

Three of Mrs. Kester's four brothers and their wives were present for the party with their families including two nephews and their families and two nieces and their families.

Howard O. Kester, of Berwick, and Ella Lawton, of Millville, were married at the home of a friend in Newberry on Jan. 27, 1912.

They have two sons, James, of East Stroudsburg, whose son Gary, is a sophomore at Moravian College, Bethlehem, and Floyd, of Los Angeles, Cal., who has a son, Richard, 15.

One of the highlights of the day was a long distance call from Floyd and his family, from California.

To receive the guests, Mrs. Kester wore a dress of navy blue woven with gold thread with a white orchid with a golden center, the gift of her husband. Her jewelry was also of gold.

The table was set against a black screen with gold branches fastened to it. The wedding cake, topped by a nosegay of yellow roses, was flanked on either side by gold candles in crystal holders. Three matching antique cake stands were turned upside down, with the center holding nosegays of yellow daisies and acacia and the underpart used for sandwiches. Tea and coffee were served of antique china and the table cloth was of ecru lace.

Pouring for the party were Mrs. Albert Sommer, Mrs. Wil-

The Wyckoff Shopper

"As friendly store"
A.B. Wyckoff
STRODSBURG, PA.

Our Toy department is, at present, devoted to Marxmanship . . . in more ways than one. And this is good, for X marks the spot, toy-wise we might say that MARX marks the spot where fun begins . . . fun with an educational potential as pleasantly disguised as the medicine in a sugar coated pill.

One of the new diversions being offered children through our Toy department is the exciting, swashbuckling series called Warriors of the World. On TV one sees these warriors of the past slugging it out boldly and dangerously. Actually, their slugging and war making is all in the imagination of a child . . . but the warriors are standing by, colorfully hand-painted by skilled artists, to add credence to a youngster's wild imaginings.

In the set are such fighters of the past as our own U.S. Confederate, Revolutionary, and Union Soldiers, Cowboys and Indians. There are also West Point Cadets, Vikings, and Romans—all reproduced according to descriptions authenticated by Collier's Encyclopedia. In all, 76 historical personalities are reproduced in these various categories, and they are fascinating collector's items as well as intriguing toys. Each little man is 19c . . . each group of 6 is 1.00. Sets of 23 assorted warriors are 3.98.

With these toys, a child can recreate history, and do first-hand battle with some of the facts he may one day be expected to memorize in school. Printed cards will tell him many interesting things about each warrior, the world in which he lived, and the part he played in history. A child might even do some history making on his own . . . he might decide, for instance, to wage battle between the West Pointers and the Vikings, or the Romans and the Confederates. The results might be breathtaking. If we think we adults have made a mess of things, it might be amusing to see just how the kids would have handled it. At any rate, Warriors of the World have begun to hit the bullseye of public fancy . . . so why don't you start a set for your children before they declare war and force the issue?

Also from Marx are the miniature tools, individually carded, that sell for 39, 49, 69, and 89 cents each. They are of a size to fit neatly into a little boy's pocket, and they really work! Pete Wyckoff tells me his Danny has already tried to take the hide-away bed apart with one of the sets of wrenches, and while he didn't succeed he did manage to dislodge one or two screws. From the adult point of view, the tools are small enough to be amusing . . . and somehow, if you like miniatures, you wish you had a tiny boy around for whom to purchase a set. Included in the array are micrometer, plane, brace and bit, hand drill, hack saw, carpenter's saw, claw hammer, ball peen hammer, two sets of wrenches, set of screw drivers, monkey wrench, Stilson wrench, and carpenter's square. See them . . . they're adorable.

UNCLUTTERED ELEGANCE — This handsome ranch has an expansion feature which adds, piecemeal if desired, the garage and its connecting service area. The basic house 1,343 square feet. A sunken patio opens the basement to additional living area.

In Italy the industrial force is concentrated in the Milan-Genoa-Turin triangle.

Sunken Patio Improves Basement

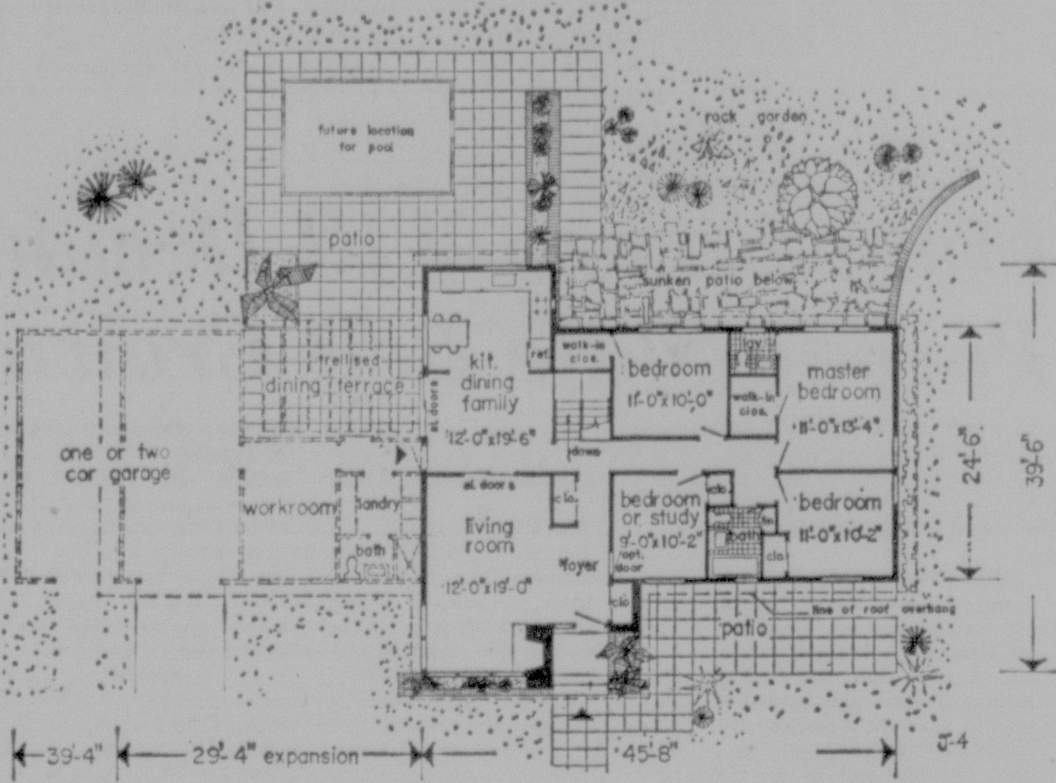

By Jules Loh

A NOVEL innovation in traditional one-story design gives this elegant little ranch the same popular characteristic as the new bi-level design—more living area at little extra cost. Simply by excavating outside the rear foundation wall, architect Samuel Paul has opened a 32-foot long basement recreation room plus a private study to an airy and attractive outdoor sunken patio. The result is a comfortable and livable expanse of what ordinarily would be gloomy basement space.

This house, design J-4 in the House of the Week series, also has an expansion plan which can be done piecemeal, enlarging it from a basic 1,343 square foot home to almost half again its size.

The basic house, however, contains as many features as most families require—four bedrooms, one and one-half baths, a 12 foot by 19 foot living room and a slightly larger combination kitchen-dining-family room. Packaging all this in 1,343 square feet, plus the full basement, is a remarkable achievement in itself. Its modest dimensions are 45 feet, 8 inches by 39 feet, 6 inches.

Architect Paul's expansion

FLOOR PLANS — The expansion feature of this house could add up to 785 square feet to its basic 1,343 square feet of ground cover.

plan would add a one or two-car garage, a workroom (or maid's room), a second full bath and a laundry. The original laundry space in the basement would then become additional storage area.

The entire expansion doesn't have to be done at one time. The garage could be built first, for example, with the connecting service area no more than a breezeway.

When the expansion is completed, a trellis can be built over the dining terrace and the terrace itself later expanded into a large rear patio including a swimming pool. A front patio could be added at this time also, producing an abundance of outdoor facilities at ground level, not to mention the sunken patio.

The completed expansion would increase the width of the house by either 29 feet, 4 inches with a one-car garage or 39 feet, 4 inches with a two-car garage.

Additional Details
The sunken flagstone patio at the rear of this house, which makes the basement area delightfully useable, is done at hardly any extra cost. The architect merely replaced the foundation wall with a frame wall, abundant in floor to ceiling windows.

The change in level between the sunken patio and normal grade can be turned to additional advantage with an attractive rock garden and a gentle run of stone steps from one level to the other.

The portion beneath the expansion section is unexcavated, of course. But the basement of the basic house is fully developed with three large rooms in addition to the recreation room, laundry, full bath, heater and storage room.

A space-saving double-run stairs, convenient to both the kitchen and living room, connects the basement with the first floor.

The first floor contains a neat optional feature in that the front bedroom, located next to the foyer, could easily serve as a den or library. If this is done, architect Paul suggests a door adjacent to the entry.

An eye-catcher in the living room is the handsome brick fireplace.

place, the back side of which forms one wall of the sheltered front entry. Sliding doors separate the living room from the multi-purpose family kitchen, and glass doors lead from the kitchen to the dining terrace.

The uncluttered exterior of this house is of horizontal wood siding accented with brick veneer and the striking brick chimney.

J-4 Statistics
A four-bedroom ranch with one and one-half baths, foyer, living room and combination kitchen-dining-family room in 1,343 square feet and dimensions of 45 feet, 8 inches by 39 feet, 6 inches.

Expansion would add 540 square feet (single garage) or 785 square feet (double garage), and would alter dimensions to 75 feet by 39 feet, 6 inches (single garage) or 85 feet by 39 feet, 6 inches (double garage).

Snow-Melting Stops Shoveling
SNOW-SHOVELING is not a particularly enjoyable exercise, and can really be dangerous to a person unaccustomed to strenuous exertion.

The Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau suggests that, if you are experiencing shoveling drudgery this winter, you may want to consider an automatic hydronic snow-melting system for your driveway and walks next year.

Any experienced plumbing contractor can give information on this system of hot water circulated through imbedded coils.

Don't Let Snow Damage Your Home

IT'S TOO early to know whether this winter's snow will equal last year's record-breaking heights, but it is not too early to take action now to prevent snow and ice from damaging your home both inside and out as they melt.

Snow often melts during the day and the water freezes again during the cold nights forming ice dams in the gutters and the valleys between gables. Water formed by subsequent melting by the sun or by heat escaping through the roof is prevented by these dams from running off through the downspouts.

Often much of this water works its way under the shingles and into the walls. Some of it soaks into the plaster of walls and ceilings causing it to break or crumble or at the best staining paint or wallpaper. Some of the water saturates the siding, and in the spring the warmth of the sun draws this moisture out through the outside paint film. Unless a blister resistant paint has been used, this escaping moisture can cause blistering and peeling of paint. Even with such a paint, the studs and siding can be damaged by the water.

Another cause of water damage to siding and paint is the moisture generated within the home by the daily process of living — bathing and showering, cooking, doing the laundry and dishes and mopping floors. It has been estimated that these activities, along with breathing and perspiring, can produce as much as six and one-quarter gallons of moisture vapor a day. Unless it has some other means of escaping, this moisture will enter the walls and ultimately work its way out through the paint on the siding.

What can be done about these conditions? The ice dams referred to earlier in this article can be prevented from forming by the use of flexible low voltage electric heating cables designed for the purpose and sold by hardware and electric supply houses. The cable can be placed in the gutters to keep the trough open and should be extended down the drain pipe to keep it from being blocked. Cables can also be placed on the lower portion of the shingles of over-hanging eaves in a zigzag pattern to prevent ice from forming on this portion of the roof.

It is hoped that before snow covered your roof, you checked the flashing around chimneys, pipes and brickwork to be sure it was intact and also kept the roof in good repair. Likewise, window and door frames should have been caulked to prevent moisture from entering. In fact, all butt joints of siding and points where dissimilar building materials meet should have been caulked, too.

Leonard Presents Self With Birthday Golf Lead

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Canada's veteran Stan Leonard gave himself a birthday present ahead of time Thursday, a sub-par 67 and the undisputed lead in the second round of the $50,000 Palm Springs Golf Classic.

Leonard, who will be 47 Friday, knocked five strokes off par at the Indian Wells Country Club and hung up a 36-hole total of 132.

He shaved six strokes off par Wednesday at the Thunderbird Country Club's regulation 71 course, which is one of four clubs in play. And Thursday night Leonard enjoyed a two-stroke lead over his nearest challengers. Tied at 134 were Jacky Cupit, from Longview, Tex., who celebrated his 24th birthday Thursday with a seven-under-par 65 at Indian Wells, and Gardner Dickinson, who had a 66 at Thunderbird.

Coles Has 67
Neil Coles, Ryder Cup player from Surrey, England, shot a five-under-par 67 at Tamarisk Country Club for a total of 135.

Charging into close contention were two feared performers, Arnold Palmer and Mike Souchak, who were tied at 136.

Palmer had a 67 at Eldorado Country Club and Souchak a 68 at Thunderbird.

Tamarisk and Eldorado are regarded the toughest courses in this desert winter playground. Palmer has now played both them with the easier ones left to conquer.

Wednesday's co-leader with Leonard, young Rex Baxter of Amarillo, Tex., with a 65, fell back with a 77 for 139. Gary Player, after a fine 69 Wednesday, also faded with a 74 for 143.

Sam Snead added a 71 to his first-round 70 for 141.

Jack Nicklaus in his fifth appearance for professional money, shot his second straight 71 for 142. He has played the two roughest courses.

Only 3 Area Teams Have Home Battles

AREA HIGH school basketball teams will have moved past the halfway mark in the season after tonight's game.

Actually all the teams except Stroud Union past the middle point last week.

Tonight's card had Wilson Boro at East Stroudsburg, Pen Argyl at Nazareth and Hellertown at Bangor in Lehigh-Northampton games and Stroud Union at Cata-saqua for a Lehigh Valley game.

Pocono Mountain goes to Brod-headville for a game with Pleasant Valley.

In Wayne County games, Southern Wayne is at North Pocono and Delaware Valley travels to Honesdale.

In girls' basketball, Wilson Boro is at Pen Argyl and Fountain Hill is at Bangor.

Swimming Meet

In swimming, East Stroudsburg goes after its second win. The Cavaliers travel to Bethlehem for an East Penn Conference match.

The L-N League's number two scorer, Craig Fuehrer, will be the player East Stroudsburg will have to stop tonight.

Fuehrer, nephew of Cavalier football coach, Jack Kist, was the leading scorer in the league last year but this year is trailing Hellertown's John Kelchner.

In the first meeting between East Stroudsburg and Wilson, Fuehrer set a career scoring record for four years of play.

East Stroudsburg, idle since last Friday, will be after its second league victory.

Pin Stripped Golf Clothes Must Be Worn

NOTTINGHAM, England (AP)—Older members of a rather exclusive set here are having a nine-hole golf course built for them at no cost, and they can use it without paying an admission charge.

The only requirement is a lengthy jail sentence. It's the only way anyone can get to play the course now being built near Nottingham jail, a prison for criminals sentenced to long terms.

The building of the course was initiated when officials found the older prisoners, unable to play cricket or soccer, standing around during the recreation period.

The course, to be ready in the spring, will be built along pitch and putt lines with membership restricted to 200. That's all the jail will hold.

Sr. League Will Start On April 9

Pocono was beaten 53-48 Wednesday by Stroud Union, only its fourth loss in 14 games.

Pocono and Pleasant Valley played Monday at Swiftwater, with the Cards winning easily.

Stroud Union opens the second half of its LV season and faces the first half champ in Catsaqua. Catty breezed through seven league games without a loss.

It's been more than three years since Stroud Union has beaten the Rough Riders, the school that produced Mounties coach Bob Wert.

Stroud Union may have Glenn Bishong back in the line-up tonight. The sophomore backcourt performer has been out with the flu and missed the past two games.

Faces Leader

Pen Argyl also faces a top team. Nazareth leads the Northern Division of the L-N League with a 4-0 record.

The Knights have been an up and down club despite several great potential scorers. Pen Argyl's biggest trouble is getting all its players to get hot in the same game.

Bangor will have little chance of winning tonight unless it can stop Kelchner, who hit 40 points in his last league outing.

Bangor is on the bottom of the Northern Division, still seeking its first league victory.

Southern Wayne finished in a tie for second and Delaware Valley was third in the first half of the Wayne battle. The two teams were scheduled to meet Friday but the game was postponed because of icy roads.

Aussies Forbid Laver To Show

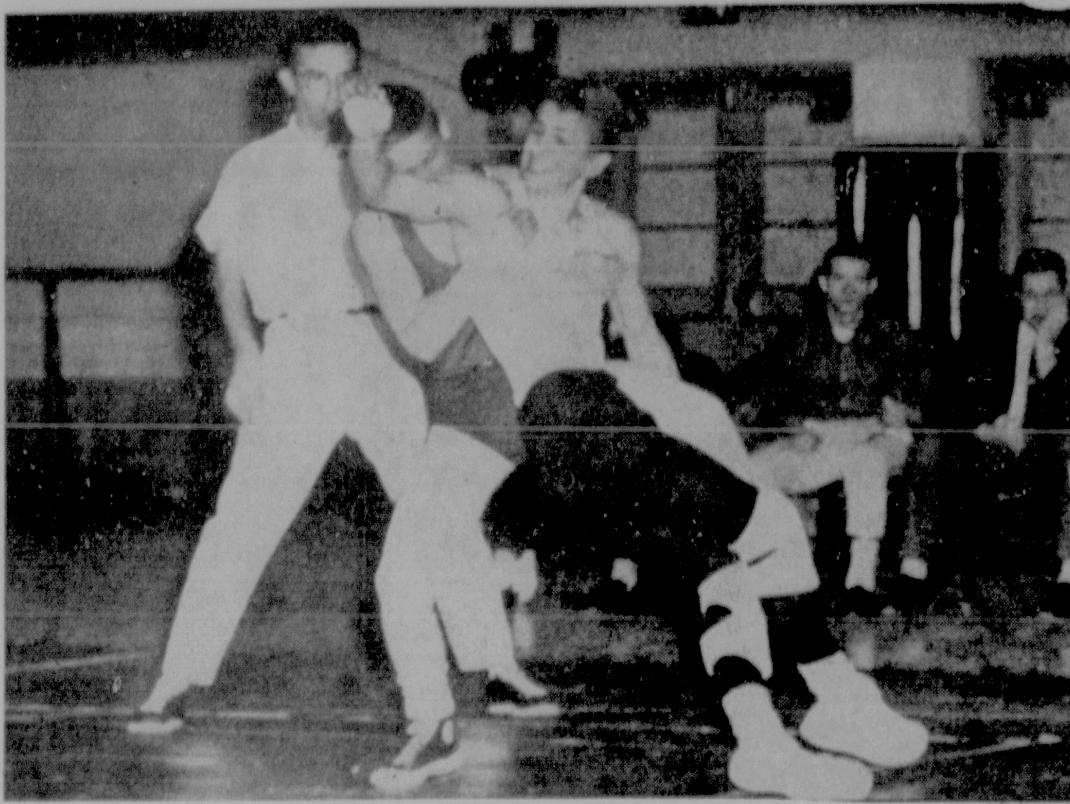

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Rod Laver, Wimbledon and Australian tennis champion, was told Wednesday by the Australian Tennis Association that he would not compete in the U.S. indoor meet in New York, starting Feb. 7.

When Laver was given permission to go on a world tennis tour, starting Feb. 28, he rejected an invitation to play in a Philippine Islands tourney starting Feb. 8 because he was "too tired." Wednesday the officials barred him from competing in New York.

Hickey Gets AD Position

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Ed Hickey, now in his fourth year as Marquette University basketball coach, will become the school's director of athletics effective Thursday.

Hickey succeeds Laurence (Moon) Mullins, whose six-year tenure ended Wednesday.

Final Games Will Decide Pocono-Slate Belt Crown

STROUD Union's 53-48 victory over Pocono Mountain Wednesday, was worth 33 rating points to the Mounties and first place in the Pocono-Slate Belt Basketball League.

Stroud Union went into the game in second place, with a 167 rating but by knocking off first place Pocono, jumped to first and 200 rating points. Points are awarded on the basis of victories and opponents' records.

East Stroudsburg is in third place with a 165 rating, followed by Bangor, 120 and Pleasant Valley, .033.

Pen Argyl actually has the best rating, .287 but the Great Knights do not play enough games to qualify for the championship.

One Game Left

Stroud Union and Pocono Mountain both have one remaining league game. If Stroud Union whips East Stroudsburg on Feb. 17, the title is the Mounties. If Pocono loses to Pleasant Valley tonight, Stroud would have a strong chance of winning the title, even if it lost to the Cavaliers.

The Cavaliers are also in the race but their chances are slim. They have to win their final three games and also have Pleasant Valley upset Pocono.

Bangor and Pleasant Valley have been mathematically eliminated from the race but could be the spoilers.

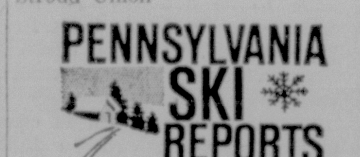

The league winner will receive the Daily Record Trophy, which can be retired when a team wins the cup three years.

Best Mountie Showing

Late Rally Helps Middies Down S.U. Matters, 43-19

MIDDLETOWN High (NY) scored five straight closing pins Thursday night for a 43-19 wrestling win over Stroud Union on the Mounties' mats.

Until Middletown broke loose, Stroud Union was on top 19-16, after scoring three pins and a decision in the first seven bouts.

It was the third loss in as many starts for Stroud Union but it was the best showing for the Mounties, who are in their first season of interscholastic wrestling. Some 300 fans sat in on the first local high school match.

John Chanaka got Stroud Union off to a 30 lead in the opening bout, by decisioning Middletown's Tom Labada, 5-2.

Middies Take Lead
Middletown went ahead 5-3 in the 106-pound battle, when Hank Smoot pinned the Mounties Bob Quigley in five minutes, with a half nelson and body press. It was Quigley's first match.

Stroud Union went back into the lead in the 115 pound class, as Dutch Grimm of the Mounties used an arm bar and half nelson and arm bar for a 5:50 fall over Charles Shambao.

The Mounties and Middies traded pins in the next two bouts, with Clarence Wagner recording the fall for Middletown and Bill Smoot pinning Middletown's Tom Golsner in only thirty seconds of their 130-pound match.

Another exchange of pins followed, climaxed by Dave Berry's 2:21 fall over Middletown's John Lee. It was Berry's second straight victory. But then the roof fell in on Stroud Union, as Middletown rolled to five straight pins, topping it off with a 26 second fall in the unlimited class.

Stroud Union takes on Easton's second unit Saturday in Easton and Thursday hosts East Stroudsburg.

Denver Skaters Hold 1st In National Figure Event

By ED CORIGAN

Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP)Monty Hoyt, of Denver whirled through a compulsory figures Thursday and all but wrapped up the national senior men's figure skating championship.

Monty, last year's junior titleholder, compiled a fantastic 5½ ordinals as he went through his paces on the Skating club of Boston Ice. This means that he was placed first on the cards of four of the five judges and tied for first on the fifth.

This was the first national championship since last year's plane crash in Brussels, Belgium, which killed America's top 15 skaters. They were on their way to the world championships — later called off — in Prague.

The compulsory figures count 60 per cent in the final scoring and the free skating 40 per cent. Hoyt's specialty is the compulsory or school figures. He probably won't score as high in the free skating, but his margin is far too great for Allen to overcome.

Delany Reduced To Relay Work

NEW YORK (AP)—Ron Delany, the indoor mile record holder, returns to the boards Friday night in the Millrose Games in Madison Square Garden as anchor man on an Irish 2-mile relay team.

Delany, who set the record of 4:0.4 in his last Garden appearance in 1959, refused to enter the Wanamaker Mile because he doesn't think he's in top condition.

The Irish team will be lined up against picked U.S. and Canadian teams.

The U.S. team will be Art Evans and Kye Courtney, Manhattan graduates; Lee Martin, formerly of Morgan State, and Jack Yerman, California.

Saints Seek $1 Million Over Sears

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—President George McKeon of the new American Basketball League's San Francisco Saints said Thursday his club seeks $1 million from the National Basketball Association.

"We are asking the (Superior) court to amend our complaint against the NBA in the upcoming suit regarding our signing Ken Sears, who played for the New York Knicks last year," McKeon said.

Pre-trial judge John Molinari is scheduled to hear lawyers of both disputants in two weeks. The Saints filed a suit against the NBA several months ago and the NBA also filed against the San Francisco team.

"Our amended complaint seeks $1 million from the NBA," said McKeon who charges conspiracy restraint of trade.

In previous court actions, failure met attempts by the New York NBA club to gain temporary injunctions to stop Sears from playing with San Francisco.

AMERICAN HOOKED RUG, 19th Century Made by Lucy Barnard. Courtesy of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, Sansbury-Mills Fund, 1961.

Art Of Seeing

By Marcia Clapp

Have you ever tried to make a hooked rug? Many women today are reviving this fascinating handicraft.

This rug measures five and a half feet by three feet and was made sometime in the nineteenth century. The design was drawn on the burlap and strips of colored fabric were pulled thru the back with a hook leaving a loop. Yarn was often pulled thru to give an edge or fine line.

This gay horse trotting in front of the farmhouse is no doubt a favorite pet of the woman who designed it. The style of house and attached barn suggests it was made in New England. All details are boldly conceived and subordinated to the whole design. Instinctively this craftsman emphasized the horse by using a strong dark which is repeated at the doors to attract our attention to the house.

Since these clumsy strips of cloth could not possibly be controlled to suggest grasses, the foreground has been given interest with flat planes of color. The flowers are too large in scale for realism, but function perfectly, adding variety and strength to the design. The execution of the rug using coarse materials influences the design excluding delicacy and refinement.

No One Knows Origin

No one knows the origin of the hooked rug. It probably originated in French Canada and came into New England where more hooked rugs were made than anywhere else in this country.

In Colonial times the floors were bare, often covered with sand or an animal hide. It is unlikely that many hooked rugs were here before 1800 as the greatest number of these were produced in the 1860's and 1870's. This was a popular and practical craft using worn out garments often redyed. Hooked rugs offered an opportunity for creative expression and many of these are so fine that they are proud possessions of many museums.

Scouting Seen Answering Needs Of Boys 11 To 13

By PAT WILLIAMS
Second In A Series

AN INVENTORY of a boy's pockets and the contents will amaze you. No self-respecting boy would be without several pieces of string, a ball, a stone (smoothly rounded) tacks, tape and any number of marbles. If he is a Boy Scout, a knife carrying the emblem of the Boy Scouts of America will be his prizes possession.

Boys in the 11 to 13 age group find that scouting answers their needs in a most satisfying way. They enter the woods as tenderfeet (which they usually get on their first hike) and come out as seasoned scouts. The woodlore and camping skills they learn through the scouting program gives the boys self reliance and pride in doing a job well.

Cooking in a kitchen may be "sissy stuff" but there isn't a boy attached to cooking over a campfire. And building the fire is an adventure in itself. Although the food cooked over an open fire is more nourishing it has yet to be recognized by medical journals. However, the parents of any scout can attest to this significant finding.

Trees are just trees to boys at first, but with scouting experience they know which ones are best for any project they may have in mind. Or which ones will be best for a job they might suddenly think up. Boys have a penchant for being quite like bottles of uncooked measles — liable to break out anywhere next. Scouting channels this ability into a bright learning experience among their own age group.

Most people have shadows. Boys do, too. A Boy Scout's shadow is cast a bit longer because his character grows a bit taller. He takes his oath, "On my honor I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country; to obey the Scout law, to help other people at all times, to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight."

By the time a Scout has followed that, he has discovered the two fold purpose of it. That privilege carries with it an inherent responsibility. Most of all, he is ready to meet that responsibility.

The old concept of a Boy Scout helping a tiny old lady across the street as his "good deed" has been replaced by boys working at home and within the community offering help to those who need it, without thought of "gold stars" for service rendered. Service has become part of his make-up and thinking.

Broken Down
A Scout troop is broken into patrols. Each one, with a leader elected by boys in the patrol. Men in the community give of their time and talents as scoutmasters. On the top level is the troop committee with a chairman and various specialty members. Each

ESC Setting Up Model Archives

ESTABLISHMENT of a modern, efficient college archives to serve as a model for all state-supported undergraduate schools is underway at East Stroudsburg State College.

The pilot project is being accomplished through cooperation of the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission which is serving in an advisory capacity. Records of all state institutions, including these schools, eventually become the responsibility of the Commission. It is hoped that proper archival methods used at the source will result in considerable savings in both money and space.

To Simplify Work
Frank B. Evans, state archivist, also pointed out that standardization of record-keeping techniques in all the colleges will greatly simplify the work of future researchers.

The first phase of the project at East Stroudsburg calls for a comprehensive survey of existing records and an analysis of current material going into filing cases.

troop is sponsored by a civic organization or church.

Scouting is part of the bridge from childhood to manhood. A solid, community recognized bridge. The Boy Scouts of today will realize their potential as the men of tomorrow.

But, asking a Boy Scout what scouting means to him may not net quite as deep an answer. He may say it's fun or he just likes it. Either way, he is receiving much more that will come into use in later years and by the time the realization dawns on him, he will find himself an adult—interested in scouting for the boys of his community.

Christians Form Political Group

NEW YORK (AP)—An unusual nationwide movement was announced yesterday to steer dedicated Christians into the rugged, slam-bang arena of American politics.

Called "Christian Citizen," it is setting up machinery across the nation to groom devout people as precinct workers and candidates. "The prime objective is to get more Christians into government," said Gerri von Freilich of Denver, Colo., chairman of the National Christian Citizen Committee.

"Most of them have held aloof from the political processes, not knowing how to participate if they wanted to, and convinced that there was nothing they could do as individuals to strengthen our national life."

Renewal Cards Mailed To Voters

CANCELLATION cards are being mailed to registered voters in Monroe County who have not voted in the past two years, John R. Lesoine, chairman of the County Election Board, announced yesterday.

Citizens who failed to cast their vote in the elections of 1960 and 1961 will be required to sign and return the reinstatement cards to the election commission. A return address card is attached to the card being mailed.

Persons who have moved from Monroe County need not return a card, Lesoine said.

Dear Abby

She Ain't Guilty!

Dear Abby: My husband works the graveyard shift, but that is not my problem. Listen to this. A very good friend of mine told me that I am the subject of much gossip because for the past six months someone has been parking a car in front of my house practically all night long. She said my neighbors say I have been receiving a "caller." Now I am long past the age for that kind of monkey business, and I don't like those stories. Last night I looked outside and sure enough there was a strange car parked there. I certainly wasn't going to sit up all night and try to meet the idiot who is giving me this bad name? who is giving this bad name?

NOT GUILTY

Dear Not Guilty: Call your police department and ask them to find out for you. After all, it's your right to avoid the appearance of evil.

Dear Abby: I am 24 years old and have never gone beyond kissing a girl. I do not intend to go any further until I am married because I think a man has no right to ask a girl to be any more pure than he is. When I express this opinion to other men, they look at me as though I needed psychiatric treatment. Am I such an unusual breed of cat?

UNUSUAL BREED

Dear Cat: It's refreshing to know that not all men come to the altar slightly used, but expect their brides to be purr-fect!

Dear Abby: I have four teenage children and, of course, they have friends who call them on the telephone. Our phone rings maybe 20 times in an evening, and this is getting my husband down. He threatens to tear the phone from the wall because he can't stand the ringing. He tells me he does not need a phone, and neither do we.

MOTHER OF FOUR

Dear Mother: Ask the telephone company to "adjust" the bell on your telephone. It's probably a shrill as a fire alarm. If it were changed to a softer jingle, your husband's nerves wouldn't jangle.

'K' In-Law Sees Laos Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alexei Adzhubei, the son-in-law of Soviet Premier Khrushchev, said yesterday his country hopes for an agreement on Laos and "it may come very soon."

"It will be a very promising beginning," Adzhubei said in answering questions concerning the problems which raise tensions between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Adzhubei, editor of the Soviet newspaper Izvestia, attended President Kennedy's afternoon news conference. As he left, he was surrounded by newsmen who made him the center of an impromptu interview.

Kennedy had just told his news conference that there has been evidence of Soviet cooperation in lessening the danger of war in Laos.
